Child killer Pitchfork to get out of jail

DOUBLE child killer Colin Pitchfork is set to be freed from prison after the Parole Board rejected a government challenge against its ruling.

Pitchfork (above), now 61, was jailed for life after raping and strangling 15-year-olds Lynda Mann and Dawn Ashworth in 1983 and 1986 in Leicestershire.

He became the first man convicted of murder on the basis of DNA evidence in 1988 after admitting two murders, two rapes, two indecent assaults and conspiracy to pervert the course of justice.

Following a hearing in March, the Parole Board ruled he was "suitable for release".

But Justice Secretary Robert Buckland asked the board, which is independent of the government, to re-examine that decision.

250 tasty new jobs at Hotel Chocolat

HOTEL Chocolat is set to create 250 new jobs as part of expansion plans, as online sales are expected to overtake store sales for the first time in its history.

Founder and chief executive Angus Thirlwell said the shake-up for the business comes as customers surged to its website in record numbers during the pandemic and continue to return.

Online sales were just 15% of the total business in 2019 but will hit more than 50% this year.

Sales are forecast to beat expectations for the year and store sales have returned to pre-pandemic levels.

Secret police arrest dozens of Cuba freedom activists

DOZENS of people have been arrested in Cuba after thousands joined the biggest protests for decades against the island's Communist dictatorship.

Cubans are angered by the collapse of the economy, food and medicine shortages, price hikes and the government's handling of COVID-19.

The protests are significant, as critics face harsh punishment for dissent.

The island's president called for his supporters to "fight" the protesters.

One protester, Alejandro, said: "There is no food, no medicine, there is no freedom. They do not let us live."

Protesters yelled "freedom" and "down with the dictatorship" in demonstrations across Cuba, including the capital Havana.

"We are not afraid. We want change, we do not want any more dictatorship," an unnamed protester in San Antonio said.

Images on social media showed what appeared to be security forces detaining, beating and pepper-spraying some of the protesters.

There were reports of internet blackouts across the island and Ramon Espinosa, a photographer with Associated Press, was injured after a confrontation with security forces.

In response to the rare unrest, President Miguel Díaz-Canel addressed the nation in a TV broadcast and blamed the US for the turmoil.

He called its tight sanctions on Cuba a "policy of economic suffocation" and said the protesters were mercenaries hired by the US to destabilise the country.

Mayor Burnham: Freedom Day is really Fear Day

FREEDOM Day will be "fear day" for some people, including those who are clinically vulnerable, Greater Manchester mayor Andy Burnham has bleated.

He believes the test of whether to ease coronavirus restrictions needs to be seen through the eyes of 3.8 million people who are most at risk from infection because they are classed as extremely clinically vulnerable.

Mr Burnham (above) told BBC Radio 4's Today programme:

"The test is this: is expecting and recommending people to wear face masks enough to give those people the confidence that they can go out and about on public transport safely?"

"I don't think it is and that is why one person's freedom day is another person's fear day."

"Many people will feel fearful next week."

He added: "I expect that when this policy hits the real world and we have to deal with it, we will be receiving complaints come Monday that people don't feel able to go about essential tasks and they will not know what to do."

Met seizes £180m of cryptocurrency

THE Met Police has seized a record £180million worth of cryptocurrency linked to international money laundering in London.

The seizure is the largest of its kind in the UK, beating the previous record set when the Met confiscated £114m of cryptocurrency on June 24.

A 39-year-old woman, arrested on suspicion of money laundering on June 24, has been interviewed over the new seizure.

She has since been bailed.

The Met's economic crime command made the seizure after following up intelligence received about the transfer of criminal assets.

NO MORE LOCKDOWNS!

But boffin warns we're in for 'miserable' winter

THE UK is unlikely to see a return to lockdowns even though winter will be "rough", a government scientific adviser has suggested.

Calum Semple, a member of the Scientific Advisory Group for Emergencies (Sage) said measures such as mask-wearing could be reintroduced over the winter to deal with a spike in COVID cases.

Speaking in a personal capacity, the professor of child health and outbreak medicine

By COLIN HURST
news@sundaysport.co.uk

at the University of Liverpool said the "winter bump" of cases would be "miserable" due to a mixture of COVID-19 and the respiratory viruses that have not been seen for the last year as people stayed at home.

Asked whether restrictions would come back, Prof Semple said: "Possibly, and it may just be about reinforcing some common sense."

"It may be bringing back some mask-wearing in certain environments, but I don't foresee the lockdowns or the school suspensions that we've seen."

Prof Semple said he thought "there's no right time to unlock" but suggested it was "quite realistic" there could be up to 2,000 hospital admissions per day, as predicted in central modelling assumptions submitted to Sage.

Harm

He added: "My big message to people now is, sure we've weakened the link between community cases and hospital cases, but that link is not broken. It's the people that are not vaccinated that are still coming to harm."

Of the people currently going into hospital, he said: "They're nearly all unvaccinated and what's surprising is that, although they're not dying, they are suffering quite a lot of injuries, so we're seeing a lot of kidney injuries and lung injuries in younger people."

Prof Semple said he would continue to wear a face mask "particularly in enclosed areas".

On Monday, Prime Minister Boris Johnson confirmed that most mandatory restrictions will end next week.

But he appealed to people to proceed with caution and emphasised that the pandemic "is not over".

DON'T LOCK UP RASHFORD VANDALS

VANDALS who defaced a mural of England footballer Marcus Rashford should be educated rather than punished, the founder of a community street art project has suggested.

Withington Walls founder Ed Wellard told ITV's Good Morning Britain on Tuesday that the artist who created the mural in Withington, Manchester, was coming back to work on it.

The mural was defaced within hours of England's loss to Italy in the Euro 2020 final.

Police are treating it as a racist incident.

When asked what punishment the vandals should be given, Mr Wellard said: "Racism is learned behaviour, I think it should be more about education than punishment."

"I don't think you're going to change people's minds with punishment.

"There needs to be active discussion about racism in this country, within sport, within society, on social media."

Local residents quickly covered the defaced mural in messages of support and hearts.

Rashford thanked fans for their support, tweeting: "Seeing the response in Withington had me on the verge of tears."

By GRACE HOOPER news@sundaysport.co.uk

LOVE Island is like kids' TV and needs more SEX!

That's according to two Geordie Shore veterans who have blasted the ITV2 show, saying the new era of "prim and proper" Islanders make the show too tame.

Holly Hagan and Marnie Simpson, both 29, likened the dating series to watching Cbeebies and say contestants are 'too middle class' and don't intend to find love in the villa.

Holly slammed the stars of this year's show for "knowing what they can get" in brand deals.

And Marnie wants the producers to bring in a lower age limit of 25 to determine who is genuinely looking for a long-term partner.

Crazy

Holly, who stars in MTV's Geordie OGs, said: "When you go from watching Too Hot to Handle on Netflix to Love Island, it's like you're watching Cbeebies, it's crazy."

"Love Island is too middle class and prim and proper and a lot of people go on there knowing what they can get after it."

"No 21-year-old wants to fall in love, they want a PrettyLittleThing deal. They need to put in

'It's too middle class and prim' people who actually want to fall in love, adults that are comfortable and confident in themselves, rather than putting kids on TV."

Marnie added: "I feel like Love Island is slacking a bit this year."

"I hate to say it, but it's letting me down at the minute and I'm hoping it picks up."

"I honestly think the age limit for Love Island should be 25 plus, it shouldn't be under 25 because I feel like I'm watching a bunch of kids."

"When that Brad talks he just can't get to the point, it's like what's he talking about?"

Cop chase woman stops for Big Mac!

A HUNGRY woman who stole a pickup truck was nicked after she stopped for a McDonald's in the middle of a police chase!

Johanna Gardell, 38, stole a commercial pickup truck and took cops in Worcester, Massachusetts, on a wild chase during which she hit and dragged an officer, crashed into two police cruisers and pulled in to order a McDonald's before finally being caught.

Gardell now faces a whopper list of traffic violations and criminal charges including assault and battery.

Burger King staff quit on fast food sign

A CREW of fed-up Burger King employees took their beef with their bosses public with a simple message on the fast-food mecca's display sign.

"WE ALL QUIT," the sign (above) said outside the eatery in Lincoln, Nebraska. "SORRY FOR THE INCONVENIENCE."

The message was put up by disgruntled employees who had decided to quit over difficult working conditions and long hours.

Former general manager Rachael Flores, among the nine workers who hung up their aprons, said she once landed in hospital with dehydration after working in the steamy kitchen without air conditioning.

"I didn't think anybody was going to notice it, because we did just one sign," Flores said. "And then it went pretty crazy on Facebook."

A PERVERT who furiously masturbated next to a river has been jailed for 27 months.

Andrew Fearnley-Hill, 51, exposed himself near to the River Mersey "in full view of members of the public" during the incident.

SADDLE PWHOAR!

IT'S a brave, or foolish, man who gets between a German woman and her right to get as naked as she pleases!

In the German capital, Berlin, topless women protested against rules that prohibit women from walking topless except in designated places.

The protest came after an incident involving a woman who was sunbathing topless in a park.

The park rangers asked her to put on a T-shirt or leave the park. The woman refused, the cops were called and the matter sparked a wider discussion, including on social media.

A movement was launched to promote equal treatment of men and women. In other words, women should have the right to walk topless as men are allowed to.

The breasts should be less sexual and more normal, according to the movement.

Participants in a topless bicycle protest in Berlin wore slogans such as "Breasts have no gender" and "My body is my choice".

One bystander said: "The best bit was when they rode over the cobbles. By the sound of the giggling, the girls liked that bit too!"

COLEEN'S DREAMY SEX WITH COWELL

STOLE SHOW: Nolan

COLEEN Nolan has revealed she dreams of sex with SIMON COWELL!

Coleen had her fellow Loose Women panellists gaping in disbelief as she told the tale of her recurring Cowell sex dream.

The panel were debating whether you should tell your partner about explicit dreams with other people when Coleen stole the show with her anecdote.

The singer was joined by Charlene White, Jane Moore and guest panellist Storm Keating on the first show of the week.

She tried to play it cool after admitting Simon Cowell was the subject of her dreams, saying: "I'm telling you now, if he had a buzzer in that dream he'd have pressed it."

"Having said that, he was so charming in this dream."

"It wasn't steamy, he was just fanciable and lovely to me."

Coleen went on to joke that the raunchy dreams left her no option but to break off her marriage with husband Ray Fensome.

The two tied the knot in 2007 but went their own ways in 2018.

Coleen had previously been married to fellow celeb Shane

Ritchie for nine years in the 1990s.

On the show, Coleen said: "I woke up in bed next to my ex-husband Ray and literally woke him up and went, 'I don't think I love you any more, I love Simon Cowell!'"

She reasoned that the dream must have stemmed from The X Factor judge's friendly meeting with her daughter.

Coleen said: "I met him once and he was lovely to Ciara when she was tiny. He was so lovely to her and it stayed with me."

"That's maybe why I had this dream. But girls, I had it twice!"

Borat sues over Yank weed ad!

SACHA Baron Cohen has launched legal action against a US cannabis dispensary allegedly using his comedy character Borat on a billboard, arguing he has never used the drug as it is an "unhealthy choice".

The British star filed a lawsuit in Massachusetts accusing Solar Therapeutics of copyright infringement and false advertising.

A picture of the offending billboard (above) features Baron Cohen as Borat giving a thumbs up alongside the words, "it's nice!"

The advert is placed on a busy interstate highway in Massachusetts to sell Solar Therapeutics' cannabis products, according to the lawsuit.

However, the use of Borat, a fictional Kazakh journalist who featured in two films, is unauthorised, the filing states.

Baron Cohen, 49, has never used cannabis and would not advertise the drug for any amount of money, the lawsuit says.

It states he does not believe the drug is a "healthy choice" and his Ali G character was a "mockery of 'stoner' culture".

Jamaica asks UK for slave compo

JAMAICA is set to ask the UK for compensation for the Atlantic slave trade in the former British colony, a senior Government official says.

The Caribbean island nation will file a petition that could seek billions of pounds in reparations, pending legal advice, Olivia Grange, Jamaica's minister of sports, youth and culture, said.

"We are hoping for reparatory justice in all forms, that one would expect if they are to really ensure that we get justice from injustices to repair the damages that our ancestors experienced," she said.

Jamaica was a centre of the slave trade, with the Spanish, then the British, forcibly transporting an estimated 600,000 Africans to work on plantations of sugar cane, bananas and other crops that created fortunes for many of their owners.

SERIAL KILLER GRANNY STABBED PAL 55 TIMES

She framed victim's hubby and murdered second man in cover-up

VICTIM: Betty (above) and Pam Hupp

By BLAKE LEIGH news@sundaysport.co.uk

A KILLER gran stabbed her pal 55 times then planted evidence to point the finger at the victim's husband.

And when the net started to close in on evil Pamela Hupp, she shot dead a man with learning difficulties to throw cops off the scent.

Hupp, 62, is already in jail, serving life for the second killing, but now she's been charged with killing her friend Elizabeth 'Betsy' Faria.

And prosecutors have called for the death penalty.

The bizarre case had unfolded in Lincoln County, Missouri.

Prosecutor Mike Wood said that Hupp convinced Betsy Faria to switch a £100,000 life insurance policy to Hupp's name just four days before staging her stabbing death to make it look like her husband had done it.

Prosecutors say Hupp waited until Faria was weak and lethargic from chemotherapy before she stabbed her 55 times as she lay on a couch under a blanket.

Blood

Then Hupp dipped the victim's socks in spilled blood and spread it around the house to frame her husband for killing her in a domestic assault, according to court documents charging Hupp with the 2011 murder.

Prosecutors also noted that Hupp was the last known person to see Faria alive, and claim she was aware Faria's husband would not be home on December 27, 2011, when she drove Betsy home from chemo.

In 2013, Betsy's hubby, Russell Faria, was found guilty of her murder, which was overturned on appeal two years later and a new investigation was then launched into his wife's death.

Fearing the new probe would unmask her, Hupp killed another man in a plot that she thought would draw suspicion away from her in Mrs Faria's murder.

SHOT DEAD: Louis

Prosecutors claim she cruised St. Charles County, and lured 33-year-old Louis Gumpenberger, who had mental and physical disabilities from an accident, to her home with claims she was a producer for the TV show Dateline in need of help re-enacting a crime scene.

Hupp reported his death, claiming she'd shot him in self-defence after he launched an unprovoked attack on her in her driveway.

She planted evidence that Russell Faria had hired Mr Gumpenberger to kidnap her and get his hands on his dead wife's insurance money.

But her twisted plot unravelled and she was later charged with Mr Gumpenberger's killing.

She entered a guilty plea in that case on the condition the death penalty was waived.

In 2019 Hupp was sentenced to life in prison without the possibility for parole.

Her body was found in woodland near the Devon town of Salcombe on June 27.

An initial post-mortem examination has failed to establish the cause of her death.

Jemma Mitchell, 36, of Brent, north London, was charged with her murder.

Mitchell appeared by video link from Bronzefield prison and was remanded in custody.

Pervy park worker on PCP during w*nkfest

A PERVY parks worker went berserk on the job, exposing himself to a shocked mum, weeing on the grass, then lying in the middle of the road, masturbating. Jeremy Soto, 36 (above), told cops: "I'm high on PCP," after he was arrested for exposing himself in Fort Tryon Park in Inwood, New York. He was busted again two days later for allegedly hugging a woman from behind on a Bronx subway platform, grabbing her breasts and kissing her neck. Soto has 15 arrests on his rap sheet dating back to 2003, and in January he was charged with and pleaded guilty to twice grabbing the arse of a female walking near the same park. During his wank frenzy, witnesses said Soto's fellow park workers arrived and tried to coax him to get up before cops arrived. Parks Department spokeswoman Meghan Lalor said Soto has been since been fired.

Hospital gown girl held after attacks on cars

A WOMAN accused of destroying other people's property and fighting with police officers is now behind bars. Loyola Volpert was seen in a hospital gown on Saturday in the neighborhood near San Pedro and Copper in Albuquerque, New Mexico. She reportedly took off her gown, tried to break into a locked vehicle, and began destroying items in people's vestibules. Criminal accusations state that when police arrived at the scene, she tried to run and began throwing things at them. Police caught up with her and handcuffed her. It was then that she allegedly kicked one of the arresting officers. Volpert has since been charged with battery.

YOU almost have to admire the brass neck of the French.

Today, July 14, is their national day where they commemorate the Storming of the Bastille in which a mob threw open the doors to Paris's largest jail, freeing various murderers, rapists, pickpockets and the notorious Marquis De Sade.

This act of folly was the start of the French Revolution, a period of unrivalled savagery and bloodlust from which was born the French Republic.

Like most things French, the Republic was not built to last. They are now on their fifth and, in the intervening time, have tried two monarchies and an empire as a means of running their benighted land.

Unwashed

Ties are close between France and the United Kingdom because, twice, we've had to rescue them from their invading neighbours, the Germans.

We've also had to speak firmly to them about choosing a power-crazed Corsican dwarf called Napoleon as their leader.

Despite this chequered history, our two countries enjoy friendly relations with some good-natured name calling.

They call us les rosbifs and we call them garlic-reeking, cheese-eating, unwashed, cowardly, greasy whoremasters.

But despite their failings, the French cannot be faulted in one regard: their womenfolk.

So today, we celebrate the flower of French womanhood by showing a load of boobs!

"But Richard loves it and (Jeff) Bezos loves it and a lot of rich guys love space."

Amazon boss Jeff Bezos will fly to space in his cock-shaped rocket later this month.

Trump boasted: "I made it possible for them to do this."

"I actually said to my people, let the private sector do it. These guys want to come in with billions of dollars."

"Let's lease them facilities, because you need certain facilities to send up rockets."

I'D EAT THAT FROM BEHIND LIKE A HUNGRY HONEY BADGER

Sex trolls drool over little Bella

ALL she wanted to do was show off her perfectly pert underboobs peeking out from beneath a crop top.

But social media personality Bella Thorne's sultry snaps were immediately pounced upon by the infamous internet ghouls who lurk inside the Daily Mail website's comments sections.

Bella, 23, appeared to be enjoying her time in a hotel room as she put on a head-turning display while taking a look at herself in a mirror.

Curvy

She posted several clips on her Instagram Story to show her nearly 25 million followers how her temporary Italian residence had been swarmed by crowds of adoring fans.

Little Bella wore a cropped black T-shirt that showed off much of her immaculately toned tummy.

bikini bottoms that accentuated her sculpted thighs and curvy hips.

But the sexist onslaught soon began in MailOnline's comments section.

"Hunter_Snorts_8Balls", supposedly writing from "Bolivia, United States", penned: "I would eat that from behind like a famished honey badger moving through a hot pie plate of peach cobbler."

And "Terms Conditions", from Alabama, wrote: "What a dirty, dirty girl. I love to go there after she hadn't showered for 3 days or so. Yummo!!"

The Shake It Up actress then caught another video to show her followers how the crowd had amassed in size.

But that just led to even more small-minded commentary from the one-handed keyboard warriors.

They included "great-and-british" scribbling from "Planet Earth" in Finland's Åland Islands, who simply smirked: "would smash".

DRUNK EX-CON PUNCHED BUS STOP

A FORMER armed robber got into a fight with a BUS STOP and walked into traffic after drinking a bottle of vodka.

Darren Boote, 44, became abusive towards cops called to Bentilee, Stoke-on-Trent, by members of the public.

North Staffordshire Justice Centre heard police found Boote in possession of the synthetic drug monkey dust.

Prosecutor Maggie Meakin said: "Police attended a report of a male walking in front of moving cars. He had been seen to punch a bus stop.

"Officers spoke to the male, who was clearly intoxicated and was abusive to police officers.

"He was searched after his arrest and found to be in possession of monkey dust."

Boote (right), of Meir, Staffs, was jailed for 10 years in 2013 for his part in an armed robbery but had been out of trouble since his release from prison.

He was given a six-month conditional discharge after pleading guilty to being drunk and disorderly in a public place and possessing a Class B drug.

Kat's cheering up distraught fans
...one AMAZING WANK at a time

By SUZIE SHELTON

FOOTBALL may not be coming home but at least the fans are coming... thanks to Britain's number one vice queen, Kat Lee!

Manchester-based Kat said she was inundated with calls on Monday morning as Three Lions fans decided one of her famed "amazing wanks" would lift their spirits.

Kat, 34, laughed: "Like everyone else, I watched the final and was gutted when England were denied victory through the dreaded penalty shootout.

"My phone did not ring once during the game. Everyone was glued to the telly."

But it was a different story on Monday morning.

TEARS OF DESPAIR: England players after shootout sickener

"I checked my phone and heard message after message," Kat (right) said.

"One said 'I want a 30 minutes no holds barred session to drown my sorrows after last night's loss'.

"There were loads more messages in that vein. I was out the door first thing and didn't stop all day.

"It's nice to think I'm cheering up Britain, one amazing wank at a time.

"I always say, there is no problem so bad that one of my amazing wanks will not make you feel loads better.

"After one bloke had lost his mess, he said, 'Fingers crossed for the World Cup, eh? And if we don't win that, I'll come back for another amazing wank'.

"It's hearing stuff like that which makes my job so worthwhile."

Faulty parachute soldier plunges through house roof... and lives!

A PARACHUTIST torpedoed through the roof of a home and into the kitchen when his jump went wrong.

The man, reportedly a British soldier in the midst of a training exercise, was dealing with a chute that didn't fully open before he plunged through the house in Atascadero, California.

"The parachutist was conscious but stunned with complaints of pain but no visible serious injuries," the Atascadero Police Department said.

"The occupants of the residence were not home at the time and so were uninjured."

The homeowner's mother said there wasn't much damage to the house.

"It's amazing," Linda Sallady said. "It's mostly the ceiling, the sheetrock. He missed the counters, appliances, everything."

Neighbour Rose Martin called the soldier's survival a miracle.

"I mean, who lands like that without a parachute and lives?" she said.

The soldier was part of a British military unit visiting Camp Roberts military base.

AS EXPERTS SAY YOU SHOULD WEAR SUNGLASSES ALL SUMMER LONG...

SHADES OF WAHEY!

SUMMER is set to come blazing back with temperatures soaring across the country.

Inevitably, doctors have put the mockers on it by reminding us the sunshine will kill us all STONE DEAD!

The latest chilling advice is that if we don't wear sunglasses from March to September,

By GRACE HOOPER

we'll be BLINDED FOR LIFE!

Research by the Australian Skin Cancer Foundation found that eyes are 10 times more sensitive to the sun's invisible ultraviolet (UV) rays than skin.

And 10 per cent of all skin cancers occur on the thin skin of the eyelid, according to the American Academy of Ophthalmology, while cancer can occur on the eyeball itself.

"I would say wearing adequate sunglasses to protect your eyes is every bit as important as wearing sunscreen to protect your skin," says consultant ophthalmic surgeon Samer Hamada.

THE ESCAPE

George Blake broke out of Wormwood Scrubs and defected to Russia

NICKED:
Blake's arrest
photo

ON November 11, 2016, George Blake, the great survivor of those who spied for the Soviets against Britain in the early Cold War years, celebrated his 94th birthday in Russia.

He was toasted with ice-cold vodka by his hosts, for this notorious British traitor Moscow was now, and had been for a long time, very much his home.

Fifty years earlier, on October 22, 1966, after serving five years of a 42-year sentence for spying offences, he had scaled the wall of Wormwood Scrubs prison on a ladder made from knitting needles.

Legend has it that the lengthy sentence, the longest-ever non-life sentence handed out by a British court, represented one year for the life of each man he had condemned to death through his treachery.

Blake was helped over the wall and hidden by Irishman Sean Bourke, who had been sentenced to seven years in 1961 for sending a bomb in a biscuit tin to a policeman.

Michael Randle and Pat Pottle, anti-nuclear campaigners who had spent a short time in Wormwood Scrubs with Blake and saw him as a fellow political prisoner, organised his onward journey...

JUST before Christmas 1966, Michael Randle, along with his wife and kids, hid George Blake under the seats in the back of their campervan and drove him across the Channel to an East German border checkpoint.

His KGB controller, Sergei Kondrashev, then arranged Blake's onward journey to Moscow.

Originally an officer in the Secret Intelligence Service or, unofficially, MI6, who had been

By KOURTNEY KENNEDY
news@sundaysport.co.uk

captured by North Korean soldiers in 1950, Blake returned from captivity to work for Soviet as well as British intelligence.

He betrayed many agents who were later executed, including a network in East Germany, as well as informing the Soviet authorities of the existence of the Anglo-American listening tunnel under Berlin.

Arrested after intelligence received from a Polish defector, Blake's sentencing in May 1961 led to the appointment of the Radcliffe Committee on Security Procedures in the Public Service.

According to the official history of MI5, Moscow Centre considered Blake, codenamed DIOMID, so important that only his controller had been permitted to know his real identity or that he was MI6.

As the existence of the SIS was not officially admitted to in 1966, on his escape Blake could not be identified in that way in Parliament or the British press, though the foreign media were less concerned.

But his prison escape received sensational media coverage and caused a good deal of public, as well as official, alarm.

Initially it was just assumed that he had been sprung by Soviet or Eastern Bloc authorities.

Harpist

Special Branch even received a tip-off that he was being smuggled out of the country in an instrument case which belonged to a harpist with the Czechoslovakia State Orchestra.

Evidence suggests arrangements were made by Blake himself, with much assistance from sympathetic fellow inmates at Wormwood Scrubs.

He had been a model prisoner, helping other prisoners with literacy classes.

But prison authorities had always considered him a "unique prisoner not to be trusted."

According to the prison's deputy governor: "This man must always be under the closest supervision. He is a security risk in every sense of the word, caution always."

Blake himself had always denied being a traitor, insisting instead that he had never felt British, saying: "To betray, you first have to belong. I never belonged."

His escape was a cause of embarrassment as well as alarm, not least for the then Home Secretary Roy Jenkins, as it was the latest in what seemed like a long list of high-profile escapes on Jenkins's watch.

They included Great Train Robbers Charlie Wilson and Ronnie Biggs in 1964 and 1965, a group of 13 prisoners with violent records who escaped on June 25, 1966, while being moved from Winchester to Parkhurst, and six prisoners from Blake's own wing of Wormwood Scrubs, whose escape on June 5 had led to tightened security.

Jenkins's tenure as Home Secretary had produced a notable series of liberalising legislation, for which he faced much criticism from the Conservative Opposition.

He also faced extreme consternation from the Metropolitan Police because of his refusal to restore the death penalty, abolition of corporal punishment in prisons, and his call for the recruitment of black police officers.

And the shooting of three policemen in London's Shepherd's Bush on August 12, 1966, increased press hysteria.

SECRET WORLD OF SPIES

An effective Parliamentary performance by Jenkins, and a weak one by Tory opposition leader Edward Heath, meant that the Government defeated a motion of censure easily.

Axeman

It also won subsequent votes on capital punishment and a Criminal Justice Bill, just before, as Jenkins later pointed out in his memoirs, 10 more prisoners escaped from prison in December 1966, including Frank Mitchell, the "Mad Axeman".

"My nerve," Jenkins wrote, "was a bit shaken." For Prime Minister Harold Wilson's Labour

Government, the Blake case was part of a much bigger legacy of espionage cases inherited from his Tory predecessors.

In the early 1960s, PM Harold Macmillan had been faced with a series of espionage cases, including the Portland Spy Case in 1961.

That was when Ethel Gee and Harry Houghton, their Soviet controller "Gordon Lonsdale", Konon Molody, and spies "Peter and Helen Kroger", Morris and Lona Cohen, were convicted of spying.

Then there was Blake himself, John Vassall, a clerk in the Admiralty

SUPERSPY: George Blake (left) pictured shortly before his death last year and (below) in his prime, working for both Soviet and British intelligence

BOY'S OWN YARN: Randle and Pottle

GREAT ESCAPE: Blake went over the wall using ladder made from knitting needles arrested in September 1962, and the defection of Kim Philby, one of the Cambridge spies, in 1963.

In addition, the Director General of MI5, Roger Hollis, told Macmillan in the spring of 1963 that his deputy, Graham Mitchell, was under investigation as a Soviet penetration agent.

That investigation, like the subsequent suspicion of Hollis himself, proved groundless.

All this caused a major headache for Macmillan, so that the Profumo affair in 1963, a sex scandal which looked like but was not an espionage case, was the last straw, and a major factor in the PM's resignation.

At the same time, there was increasing evidence of Soviet espionage activity within the UK, a problem that was to grow during the 1960s and culminate in the mass expulsion of Soviet intelligence officers in 1971.

For the Harold Wilson Government, taking office in 1964 meant taking on the management of imprisoned spies and ongoing cases, as well as tackling the Soviets about their "unacceptable activities".

It was an unwelcome legacy to take on, as there was initially a great deal of Labour suspicion of the security and intelligence services.

Sinister

In that context, the escape of George Blake seemed sinister as well as alarming and there is still a lot we do not know about him, despite the publication of his memoirs.

When Randle and Pottle published their book about the escape in 1990, the press called it a "Boy's Own Yarn that came true."

But neither Blake's career, nor his escape, was a laughing matter.

When he died on Boxing Day last year, aged 98, in Moscow, the official RIA Novosti news agency first reported his death citing Russia's SVR foreign intelligence agency.

It said: "We received some bitter news, the legendary George Blake passed away."

Russian President Vladimir Putin, himself an ex-KGB agent, expressed his "deep condolences" to Blake's family and friends.

In a message which was published on the Kremlin website, the Russian leader noted Blake's "invaluable contribution to ensuring strategic parity and maintaining peace on the planet."

To rub salt in British wounds, Putin added: "Colonel Blake was a brilliant professional of special vitality and courage."

Blake is buried, with military honours, at Moscow's Troyekurovskoye Cemetery.

'Superhero' vigilante is on trail of serial killer

I'M COMING FOR YOU!

AVENGERS: ShadowVision (above) and Deadpool (right)

A SWORD-wielding vigilante who has clearly been watching too many Deadpool movies says he's "getting close" to catching a serial killer after three people were stabbed to death in a US city.

The self-styled ShadowVision said he is a superhero and has been patrolling Little Rock in Arkansas after a woman was knifed 15 times and claimed he knows the criminal's name.

Debra Walker, 43, survived the attack but three others have been killed in the city since August 2020.

ShadowVision told the site that he feels he is "getting close" to catching the serial killer and knows his name.

Threat

"I am coming for you. I want a one-on-one fight with you," he said.

The vigilante wrote on his Facebook page: "I know that the serial stabber is keeping an eye on my page here."

"So this is a threat to you: when I find you, I will show you what I do to serial killers. I am hunting you right now."

His all-black outfit is typically a steel helmet, bulletproof chest, backplates, shoulder pads, fanged arm cuffs, handcuffs, two steel sais strapped to his thighs and two katanas.

He's been attracting more attention after a popular TikTok video was posted about him.

His Facebook bio says: "I am ShadowVision a real-life superhero."

"I protect the innocent at whatever cost. I would sacrifice my own life to save [sic] an innocent life."

He also claims to have "exterminated" two other serial killers years ago.

WHAT'S ANNOYING HIM THIS WEEK?

Losing was bad...the mindless reaction from knobheads was worse

SPOT OF BOTHER:
Bukayo Saka is consoled by Gareth Southgate after penalty miss

BY all means be pissed off that England didn't bring football home.

Be choked that the otherwise indisputably sound decisions made by Gareth Southgate sadly ended with a duff one – asking an inexperienced youngster to take a penalty at the highest level.

Groan about the fact that there's one idiot who has to invade the pitch mid-match in the vainglorious hope it'll land him a shot on Love Island or some such utter tripe.

And bemoan the awful truth that, yet again, we've pulled up short in the worst but most predictable way.

Getting glum about any of that is fair enough. Drown your sorrows like the rest of us.

Because, of course, you're allowed to be down in the dumps about it.

But what on earth has any of that got to do with the colour of someone's skin?

Waking up on Monday morning was bad enough as memories of the night before suddenly came hurtling back.

Racists

Most of the headlines remained really positive though, rightly praising Southgate and Co for a dignified and much improved England campaign.

But then the wretchedly inevitable "other" headlines came up, too.

Some social media morons somehow managed to conflate a few skewed kicks of a bag of air into some sort of justifiable reason to be out and out racists.

Not only is this grotesque, ignorant, stupid, it is entirely senseless too.

The team we all screamed our lungs out for on Sunday evening will likely be the exact same team we'll be screaming our lungs out for at the World Cup next summer.

Or will we?

Who could blame some of the younger players, already feeling like they've been punched in the guts, if they hang up on their international careers on the grounds that the disgusting reactions of a tiny group of brain dead knobheads simply make the whole playing-for-your-country thing not worth it.

This isn't about whether or not you agree with the taking the knee stuff.

It's about treating people with the most basic decency and respect for having the balls to stand up and be counted before thousands in a stadium and millions more watching on TV around the globe.

Ignorant

It's about saying bloody well done and thanks for giving us your best efforts.

It's about offering a consoling arm around slumped shoulders and saying genuinely: "Better luck next time."

Because there will be a next time, and sooner than you think.

Only hopefully, there won't be a next time for pillocks who can't see beyond their own thick, ignorant noses that all they did was watch a football match, not a war.

Gareth Southgate will hate the horrible truth about his own infamous missed penalty at Euro '96 now being added to his failure to lead England to success in a tournament final spot-kick shootout.

But that really shouldn't matter.

He's led that team with grace and his attitude has clearly trickled down into the arteries of the players.

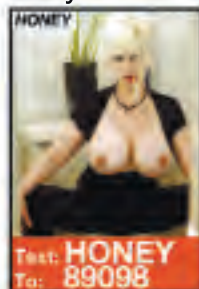

Arteries which, it shouldn't even need to be said, all carry the same-coloured blood.

Cosby's not welcome on comedy Bill

FREED comic Bill Cosby has been told he isn't welcome at a legendary comedy club.

The Comedy Cellar in Greenwich Village, New York, which has hosted stars including Jerry Seinfeld, Robin Williams and Chris Rock, won't allow the disgraced comic to perform there after his release from prison.

The 83-year-old fallen funnyman (above) now plans to do a stand-up tour.

But club owner Noam Dworman said he won't book Cosby in his basement venue because Cellar audiences wouldn't support it.

The Pennsylvania State Supreme court overturned Cosby's sex assault conviction on June 30, saying a secret verbal agreement with then Montgomery County District Attorney Bruce Castor Jr. prevented the comic from ever being charged for allegedly drugging and molesting Andrea Constand in 2004.

Cosby served more than two years of a 3-to-10-year sentence.

Rabid bats scare for 186 campers in zoo sleepover

NEARLY 200 people who paid to take part in a sleepover at a zoo need rabies shots after being exposed to a rabid bat.

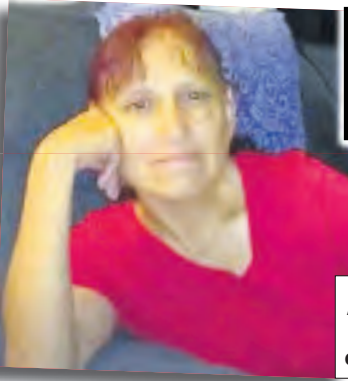

A camper awoke at the Henry Doorly Zoo and Aquarium in Omaha, Nebraska, and spotted one of the disease-carrying mammals flying near her head.

The woman wasn't scratched or bitten but the zoo later found seven wild bats, including one that tested positive for rabies, inside the venue and said up to 186 people may have been exposed.

"It is not unusual for a wild bat to be infected with rabies, which is why you should never directly touch a wild bat," said Henry Doorly Zoo Animal Health Director Dr Sarah Woodhouse.

The zoo gave campers refunds and is paying for their rabies shots.

STABBED AND HACKED TO PIECES: Maria 'Mary' Cuevas-Garcia

Court hears couple thought victim was a witch

By COLIN HURST news@sundaysport.co.uk

A MAN charged with murdering his mother says he had nothing to do with her killing and he didn't chop her into little bits.

But Anthony Cuevas admits taking the gory collection of body parts and dumping them in a skip behind a car wash, a court heard.

Cuevas' defence lawyers maintain their client is innocent of the killing or dismembering of Maria "Mary" Cuevas-Garcia, his 58-year-old mother.

Instead, the defence argue that Anthony's wife, Melanie Cuevas, believed Cuevas-Garcia was a "witch" and had used her phone to search for ways to kill and dispose of a witch.

The jury trial for Anthony Cuevas, 37, of Monte Vista, Colorado, heard his mother's body was found in a suitcase in a dumpster in October 2019.

The rest of her dismembered remains were found in a trash bag beside a river in 2020.

Crushed

Anthony Cuevas was later charged with first-degree murder, vehicular eluding, trespassing with intent to commit a crime and identity theft.

The prosecution said after Cuevas-Garcia's body was dumped at the car wash, Anthony drove his mother's Nissan Versa that can be seen on surveillance video to a scrapyard, where it was crushed.

Anthony's defence lawyer, Philip Dubois, listed actions Anthony took that "he regrets", including his drug addiction, disposal of his mother's dismembered torso, sale of the car to the scrapyard and fleeing from police.

Dubois maintained that Anthony did not kill his mother and pointed to "bad blood" between Melanie Cuevas and Cuevas-Garcia, including that each woman believed the other was a "witch".

The jury heard Cuevas-Garcia suffered eight stab wounds to the upper portion of the chest and four stab wounds to the back of the neck.

Dismemberment took place after death.

Anthony Cuevas told police at interview that he had seen a "witch doctor" who told him his mother had sexually abused him since the age of five.

A confession that he had killed his mother was retracted before he went to trial.

Nice set of lungs, Bella!

BEAUTY Bella Hadid turned heads at the 74th annual Cannes Film Festival with a necklace shaped like a pair of LUNGS!

The Yank model, 24, wore the intricate, gold necklace to the premiere of arty flick Three Floors.

One fan said: "I'd love to examine that necklace more closely but I fear I'd spunk up in my kecks."

THE WORLD FAMOUS AGONY

Dear Kelly,

I WORK for an advertising agency and my boss is a sexy blonde in her early 40s. I'm 22 and joined the company as a graduate last year.

As soon as I arrived she was flirting with me and at the end of my first week she gave me a blowjob for "working so hard".

I couldn't believe my luck!

A week later she invited me to her place and I boned her.

She's got a great body and let me have her up the arse. A few days later I had her and her pal – a tasty brunette in her late 30s.

She told me that they have regular threesomes with their "toyboys".

I feel used and wonder if I should stop shagging my boss. What do you reckon?

TD, Leeds

Kelly says...
LIGHTEN up and enjoy yourself with these sexy older ladies

Dear Kelly,

MY missus is a right little tart – and I love it.

She likes to dress up in skimpy clothes and throw herself all over men when we're on a night out, not caring if I'm there.

I get so turned on when I see her getting groped and snogged by a complete stranger.

The other night I watched as some bloke fondled her tits and fingered her in the middle of a nightclub.

But now she wants to take it further and shag them.

As you might imagine, I'm not keen.

How can I stop her?

DP, York

Kelly says...
YOU'LL really have to explain to her how you feel – it could end your relationship.

Midlands lass won't take it up the Brum

Dear Kelly,

IT may sound a bit weird but there's something about a Brummie accent that really gets me going.

I know most people prefer the sound of voices from their own region, but when a Wolverhampton lass or Dudley babe pipes up, my dick goes rigid.

Just lately I've been tuning into Brummie radio station through the internet just so I can fill my ears with those wonderful tones the women presenters have.

One was on the radio the other day blathering on about something or other and I soon had my hand on my tool, tossing myself off.

I had no idea what she looked like, but her drawl soon had me in ecstasy.

I thought I'd cracked it when I found a Midlander of my own.

She works down the library and I took her round the back of non-fiction and I asked jovially if she'd take it up the Brum.

She slapped my face and stormed off to report me to management.

What did I do wrong?
FC, Manchester

Kelly says...

MAYBE she didn't like YOUR accent.

AGONY IS BROUGHT TO YOU IN ASSOCIATION

WELCOME to the World famous Sport Agony page! No other newspaper's agony aunts can offer the level of advice – or experience – than our own Agony Angels! This week KELLY MCGREGOR has been reading through your letters. And here's her advice for you...

Hubby can't keep up with my need for rougher sex!

Dear Kelly,

I'VE been married to my husband for nine years and our sex life has got bomg.

He's a great guy in most other ways but his bedroom moves are always the same.

We have a bit of foreplay, I give him a blowjob, swallow his spunk, then it's the same old wait for him to get hard again and climb-on-do-it-roll-off routine.

The trouble is he's too nice and doesn't realise that most women – myself included – want sometimes is some rough, dirty sex.

That's why I ended up having an affair with a guy in my office.

Mouth

The first time we had sex was amazing – everything I'd longed for.

I kissed him passionately and he thrust his tongue hungrily in my mouth as I rubbed the bulge in his trousers.

He pushed the papers on my desk aside, threw me roughly over it, pulling my thighs apart and literally ripped off my panties.

He grinned wickedly as he unzipped his pants to reveal his hard cock.

Then he grabbed my hair and pushed my head down and I took his big dick in my mouth.

I sucked him hard until I could feel the surge of a throbbing climax in his balls.

We were hot and sweaty as he rolled me over and rammed his dick into my soaking pussy, shagging me doggy-style while pulling gently on my hair.

DO YOU HAVE A SEX PROBLEM?

email:

agony@sundaysport.co.uk

Mail: Agony, Sunday Sport, 860 Chester Road, Stretford, Manchester M32 0QJ

I yelled at him to fk me harder until I could feel a massive orgasm swelling within me. It wasn't long before we were both climaxing and I felt completely satisfied and fulfilled for the first time in ages.

I then sucked him hard again and we did it standing up against a wall.

I've been seeing this bloke for three months and it has helped my marriage, as my need for wild sex is being met, but I can't help feeling guilty.

Should I confess all to my poor hubby?
SM, Leeds

Kelly says...

IT'D be better if you just told him you needs.

Dear Kelly,

I'M a 42-year-old woman having trouble finding a toy boy who can keep up with me. I've never been married and I like to orgasm at least five times a day but, like I said, I've hit a bit of a sticky patch lately. My last fling was with a 22-year-old gym instructor with an eight-inch cock.

I used to love running my tongue over the length of his shaft while it was still limp. There's nothing more exciting than when you feel a cock stiffening in your mouth.

Anyway, when he was hard I would let him do whatever he wanted to me.

He used to love tying me to the bed and pulling my long blonde hair as he thrust into me.

Problem is, after his third or fourth orgasm he would be spent, just like the 12 or so before him.

Any ideas on where I can find a lover who can keep up with me?

MP, Kent

Kelly says...

TRY a cardboard box marked 'Rampant Rabbit'.

Dear Kelly,

I'M 18 and have just started taking driving lessons.

My instructor is about 40, blonde and really sexy – I was stunned when I first saw her.

For my second lesson she wore a really skimpy low-cut top, which showed off her huge tits, and a short skirt.

Needless to say, I found it really difficult to concentrate on my driving with a massive hard-on.

For my third lesson she told me to drive into the country. When we parked up I thought it was to practise some manoeuvres.

Sexual

We did – sexual ones. She took her top off and just as I was about to grab hold of her tits she unzipped my pants and started sucking my dick. It was as if all my dreams had come true.

After I'd come all over her boobs, she took her knickers off and lay back, spread her legs and let me pump her.

Since then, we have a shag after every lesson.

The only problem is that she's put me in for my test, but if I pass there will be no more sex sessions.

What do you think I should do?

PT, Merseyside

Kelly says...

YOU could always fail your test on purpose!

Dear Kelly,

I WORK as a mechanic on garden machinery and often get called out to fix lawnmowers at posh homes.

The job is boring but recently I was called out to have a look at a broken-down ride-on lawnmower.

The house was massive with huge lawns and the mower had been left outside so I could get straight to work.

It was a hot day and I stripped off my T-shirt.

I had only been there for five minutes when I looked up and a lady was standing in the doorway. She had long dark hair and huge tits.

She was wearing a white blouse and a white skirt and the sun was shining through the material and I could clearly see her dark mound.

She said: "I thought I'd bring you a drink." I couldn't believe my eyes and I felt my cock start to stiffen.

I stood up and accepted the drink and we chatted for a few minutes. Then it happened. She started stroking my arm and bare chest and I wasn't really sure how to react.

But when she tugged down my jeans, unzipped her skirt and let it fall and said "lick me".

I didn't need asking twice and quickly buried my tongue into her pink pussy.

She then lay back on the ride-on lawnmower and said: "Fk me hard."

Within seconds I was thrusting deep inside her and she orgasmed time after time and I could feel her love juices trickling round my balls.

After I shot my load deep inside her she quickly pulled her clothes back on.

She said never to tell anyone what happened as she had too much to lose and disappeared back in the house.

Should I go back?
FG, Peterborough

Kelly says...

WAIT until she calls you again – it probably won't be long.

LATELY, I can't stop fantasising about being watched while I'm shagging!

I guess that means I'm an exhibitionist... but not the creepy play with yourself in public type. Consensual of course.

I've always loved walking naked around the house while my fella watches.

When I'm with a lover, I totally get off on him watching me play with myself. That's so hot.

I'm also a fan of engaging in public sex where you could potentially be caught, such as fields and laybys.

I've yet to fully explore this kink of mine. The next level would be going to a sex club or going dogging.

The idea of a group of people surrounding me and watching me get up to no good while touching themselves is such a thrill.

Another thing I'd like to try is streaming myself online, with strangers tuning in to watch.

I just love being the centre of attention.

And I love feeling like I'm in a porn film with it all on display!"

MIDWEEK Sport
ALWAYS HOME OF TOPLESS BABES

SSAUCY Kami Arias says she froths up at the thought of some sexy lady-lovin'...but only if her lucky fella can join in.

Kami has told how she enjoys having it off at least THREE TIMES a day with her man.

But the Bolton-born babe claims the constant bonking isn't enough, so she gets her girly mates round to spice things up!

Cock

Kami, 32C, said: "It's not that I don't love a good old-fashioned seeing-to with a cock in me up to the hilt, but there's something about women that turns me on."

"For my perfect night I'd be getting rammed by my man while sticking my head between a lady's legs, flicking my tongue over a hot clitt!"

EXCLUSIVE! The world's poshest porno is here at last!

SPECIAL OFFER: ANY 3 PRIVATE SHOPS DVDs FOR £25 (was £75)

IT'S finally time to say goodbye to the creepy Crawleys of Downton Abbey and hello to the horny hotties of buxom Bottomley Manor!

For all you red-blooded fellas who love your porn but are bored to tears by dull Downton Abbey this is your lucky day.

Released last week, the UK's most highly anticipated adult movie is available exclusively through the Sport's adult partner Private Shops and, for a limited time they're offering readers another £5 OFF the already low, low price.

Down On Abby is a big budget, full length adult masterpiece starring porn legend Ben Dover and a cast of the hottest adult stars around. It will transport you to Bottomley Manor, home to the Lord Grabhem (played by Ben Dover), his wife (and 2014 AVN nominee) Jasmine Jae, and their two young promiscuous step-daughters, Abby and Fanny.

The Grabhems have invited the Stiffies to dinner and their staff, led by butler Smallc and footman Master Bates, hurriedly prepare to receive their honoured guests.

But during preparations some members of staff have their own ideas of how to make the night go with a bang! As dinner approaches it seems everyone's got more than fancy nosh on their minds. Mind you, there is plenty of noshing as well as lots of other filth that will even cause a crease in Carson's keks.

We see plenty of R18 DVDs at the Sport but this one is really something special and one you MUST not miss!

This future classic stars Ava Dalush as Missy, Cathy Heaven as Lucy, Emma Leigh as Betty, Jasmine Jae as Lady Wanda Grabhem, Jasmine James as Fanny Grabhem, Jess West as Lady Stiffie, Lexi Lowe as Abby Grabhem, Ben Dover as Lord Will Grabhem, Big Bad Dave as Smithers and Clarke Kent as Master Bates.

CHESTY Aimee Luis reckons her 32DDs are her best feature, as they help her get free stuff.

And the babe, from Broxbourne in Herts, said whenever she wears a daring low-cut top good things happen to her.

She said: "I get free drinks in bars and clubs, free fruit when I walked through the market, extra dishes would be brought over to the table in restaurants and sometimes taxi drivers would let me off with the fare."

"There is definitely a difference when I cover my girls up!"

TOP TEAM: Sterling

Three Lions in team of Euros

THREE England stars have been picked in the UEFA team of the Euros.

Raheem Sterling, Kyle Walker and Harry Maguire have made the final 11.

Winners Italy have the most men in the side with five including player of the Euros Gianluigi Donnarumma.

Leonardo Bonucci, Leonardo Spinazzola, Jorginho and Federico Chiesa were the other Italian players to make the team.

The line-up was completed by Spurs and Denmark midfielder Pierre-Emile Hojbjerg, Spain youngster Pedri and Belgium forward Romelu Lukaku.

A special UEFA panel which included former England gaffer Fabio Capello and Hammers boss David Moyes chose the side.

■ TEAM: Gianluigi Donnarumma (Italy); Kyle Walker (England), Leonardo Bonucci (Italy), Harry Maguire (England), Leonardo Spinazzola (Italy); Jorginho (Italy), Pierre-Emile Hojbjerg (Denmark), Pedri (Spain); Federico Chiesa (Italy), Romelu Lukaku (Belgium), Raheem Sterling (England)

Rashford: I'm sorry

MARCUS Rashford says he's sorry for missing a penalty in the Euro 2020 final shootout.

The Man United forward was brought on with seconds to go as a sub with taking a spot kick in mind.

Gareth Southgate has come in for stick after doing that, with fellow late sub Jadon Sancho also missing from 12 yards.

Rashford has come in for sick racist abuse after his penalty miss and issued a statement.

He said: "I can take critique of my performance all day long."

"My penalty was not good enough, it should have gone in, but I will never apologise for who I am and where I came from."

IT'S ALL CHANGE IN NORTH LONDON

GUNNERS FIRE TEAM OF FLOPS!

Arteta wants to flog at least 11 stars as he rebuilds Arsenal

ARSENAL boss Mikel Arteta is trying to kick out a whole team of players to raise cash for star signings.

The Spaniard is under pressure after the Gunners struggled to finish eighth in the Premier League last season.

Arteta knows a bad start next month will put his job at risk. And there are a host of Gunners players who have underperformed since the former Man City No2 took over.

From back to front, there are established Arsenal stars on their way out of the Emirates.

Goalkeeper Bernd Leno is a target for several European clubs and is likely to make way as he's one of the more valuable players in the squad.

Arteta is a known fan of Aaron

By PAUL THOMAS

Ramsdale who has just been relegated with Sheffield United. Leno could bring in around £30m while the Blades stopper would cost half that figure.

There are a host of other Gunners players who appear to have no future at the club.

Granit Xhaka played well for Switzerland in the Euros and is on the verge of joining Roma.

The midfielder has reportedly agreed personal terms with the Italians but Arsenal are not happy with the fee being offered.

They are holding out for north of £15m while the Serie A side want to keep it to single figures.

Thanks to his good showing on the international stage, other teams are expected to come in but Xhaka wants to play for new Roma boss Jose Mourinho.

Fellow midfielder Matteo Guendouzi has signed for French side Marseille in a £10m deal that kicks in after he spends a year on loan with the Ligue 1 side.

Hector Bellerin is another high-profile player thought to be on his way out of the capital.

Sniffing

The 26-year-old was linked with Paris St Germain although their interest seems to have cooled.

Now Inter Milan are sniffing around the full-back but don't want to cough up the £25m asking price.

Bellerin has gone on the Arsenal pre-season training camp but he's made it clear that he doesn't want to spend another season sitting on the bench.

Other players expected to move on include Joe Willock who was a big hit on loan at Newcastle last season.

The Magpies would like to bring him back to St James's Park on a permanent deal but he's another player that won't be going cheap.

The 21-year-old will want game time if he's forced to stay at the Emirates and Arteta may choose to cash in.

He would be another priced at around £20m should a deal be done.

The rest of the departures could be led by Willian, Sead Kolasinac, Ainsley Maitland-Niles, Lucas Torreira, Eddie Nketiag and Reiss Nelson.

If most of those names move on, Arteta will have to act fast to bring

AHEAD OF THE BIG KICK-OFF

ON HIS WAY: Khaka is expected to leave Arsenal this summer in the players he wants to make Arsenal challenge for a Champions League place again.

Two Premier League stars head his shopping list.

Arteta is a major fan of Wolves striker Ruben Neves and some reports suggest talks have already started for the Portugal hitman.

Assets

He has just under two years left on his deal at Molineux and there are signs that the Midlands are looking to cash in on some of their biggest names.

Wolves would want around £40m for one of their prized assets who could be interested in the move now what Nuno Espirito Santo has left the club.

There seems a fair chance of getting that deal but Arteta faces a bigger fight to prise James Maddison from Leicester City.

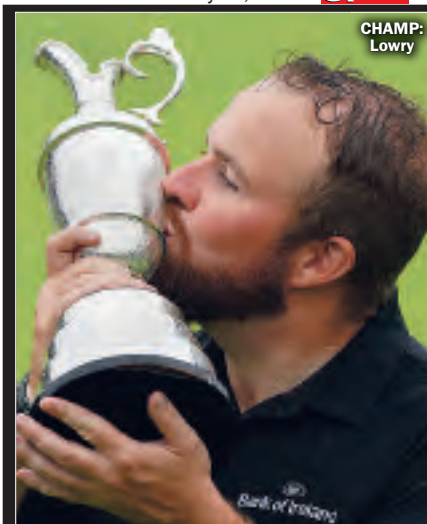

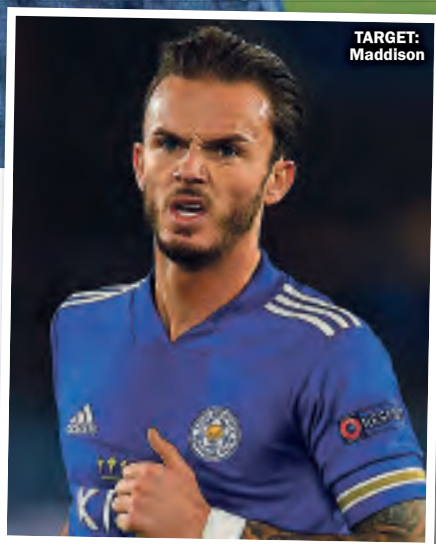

The England midfielder became one of the Premier League's biggest stars last season but his wages are not massive by current standards.

Arsenal would have to fork out around £50m to get their man which is why so many of their current players are up for sale.

Moving on ten players or more would also make a massive hole in their wage bill.

Neves and Maddison could cost around £100m between them and each player would have their wages doubled to a total of £300,000 per week.

Leicester want to keep Maddison and boss Brendan Rodgers will dig in over the move.

Bubble won't burst Open champ Shane

GOLF: THE OPEN STARTS ON FRIDAY

DEFENDING champion Shane Lowry says he can't wait to tee off at Royal St George's.

The Irishman has had to wait an extra year to defend the Claret Jug and admits the lack of hype thanks to the Covid bubble helps his chances of landing another victory.

He said: "I reckon if it was a normal Open and I was defending I might have a couple more things to do, so it probably is working in my favour a little bit as regards my performance."

"It's a bubble, but I don't think I'll be doing anything different than I normally do."

"I come to the golf course, I play and I go home and we have dinner in the house, and that's it."

"You don't do anything else the week of big tournaments."

"You're kind of resting up as much as you can, and you're obviously here playing and practising all day, every day when you're here."

Lowry is in good form heading to Kent having come fourth in the USPGA Championship and playing well in the Irish Open.

He says playing on empty courses held him back last season and his game is better now.

Lowry added: "I look back on 2020 as a season and, without making excuses too much, not playing in front of fans doesn't do it for me."

"That's just the way it is. I struggled last year coming out of lockdown. I was playing great. I've never played as much golf in my life, and I just was stale when I got out there. I just couldn't get it going."

"I hope that I can be competitive. I'd like to put up a good defence of my trophy and I'd give anything to have a chance to win come the weekend. I'm out there planning for that over the next few days, and we'll see how it goes."

One player who won't be facing Lowry is Zach Johnson who had to pull out after testing positive for Covid.

Stokes fears Hundred chaos

BEN Stokes admits he's worried that Covid will ruin cricket's new Hundred competition.

The new limited-overs format kicks off this month but the England all-rounder is worried that players will be forced to isolate and miss matches.

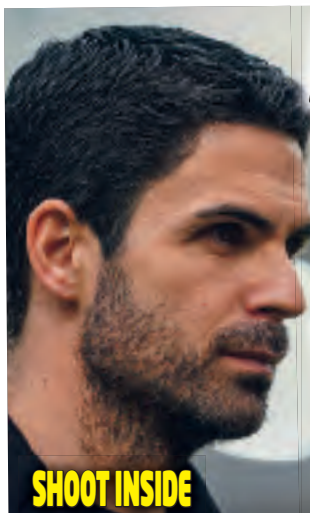

He said: "It would be very frustrating to not be able to participate. It's a massive event for England and we want to be part of it. We know how big a role players play in making a franchise competition big and if the Test players were unable to play in it because of Covid, that would be pretty devastating."

Covid could also play a part in the India Test and one-day series that starts next month. He said: "Everything is to ensure the safety of players and backroom staff. Nothing is set in stone for the India series, but it will be done in the right way."

CHELSEA GO HAAAL IN

Blues make first move for £150m striker

CHELSEA are determined to win the £150m race for Erling Haaland.

The Blues have shown their hand first with Roman Abramovich himself set on buying the Norwegian.

According to reports in Germany, the Chelsea chief has sanctioned £150m to get the deal done.

Borussia Dortmund say

By JOHN ANTHONY

they want to keep hold of the 20-year-old who has been a scoring sensation in the Bundesliga.

He has banged in an impressive 57 goals in just 59 games since signing from Red Bull Salzburg in 2019.

And Chelsea want to back boss Thomas Tuchel in his bid to win the Premier League.

The Blues need a more deadly striker than Timo Werner and want to fend off interest in Haaland from Manchester City.

Haaland is reportedly not happy that Dortmund sold his strike partner Jadon Sancho to Man United.

And he has a release clause that triggers next year that would see him exit Dortmund for around half of what Chelsea are ready to pay this summer. They can't afford to turn that kind of money down.

Man City were hoping to wait and get the hitman in 12 months' time.

But they are expected to enter the race especially if Spurs keep hold of Harry Kane.
